

VETERINARIAN – AMBULATORY WITH REPRODUCTIVE FOCUS.

Goulburn Valley Equine Hospital located in Congupna, (Shepparton), Victoria, Australia is seeking an Ambulatory Veterinarian with a Reproductive Focus to join our well-established, active practice. The ideal candidate must be experienced in general equine stud medicine with considerable skill and proficiency with all aspects of equine reproduction including Thoroughbred stud management along with AI using fresh, chilled and frozen semen. Additional experience including embryo transfers, stallion collections, semen freezing, recipient herd management and foaling is beneficial.

We seek an individual with a forward-thinking and positive attitude that can function well as a part of our team. Must have excellent communication and people skills, a strong work ethic, and a desire to provide exceptional client service. The candidate will join a dynamic staff that consists of 14 veterinarians, including two board certified reproduction specialists, a board-certified medicine specialist and two board-certified surgeons. Our team also includes reproduction and surgical residents, interns, many support staff, and students.

We are a large practice that offers the opportunity to practice high quality medicine with the added benefit of the cooperation and consultation of highly regarded specialized veterinarians in their fields. We have a very large and diverse client base to establish a niche in, while maintaining a happy work/life balance in a wonderful community.

The position on offer is seasonal from August 2020 until February 2021. The reproductive caseload can be tailored to the applicant and can vary from 50 - 100% during the breeding season. We offer a starting salary commensurate with experience. If you would like to learn more about the position and our team, please send your CV and letter of intent to the Practice Manager at robert.ralston@gvequine.com.au